

Spring 2008 Final Exam Scheduling Matrix

Important: If your instructor elects to give a 2 ½ hour final exam or if all sections of a given course will have a final exam at the same time (a common final), you will need to find out from the instructor when the final exam will be held. This scheduling matrix provides an overview of when most exams will be held. When a specific exam for a specific course will be held will be posted here before the end of February.

Exam Scheduling Matrix: Find the meeting pattern of a course and its start time located within the grid box; exam day is noted in the top row and the exam time is noted in the left margin. For example, the final exam for a Tuesday/Thursday (R) course meeting at 11:00am will be scheduled on Thursday beginning at 9:00am. Exams are scheduled according to the meeting pattern and start time of the first weekly occurrence of a course's primary lecture session (not the recitation session).

*Common Exam is a single exam administered to multiple sections of the same course

*Extended Time, by special departmental request, provides instructors a 2.5 hour period to administer an exam

**Alternate period reserved for make-up exams, FIU online courses and/or course with non-standard meeting pattern
